Pastoral Reflection—30th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Today's readings present us with a vital element of our spiritual journey: not only our nearness to God, but God's nearness to us. The author of the First Reading states that God is near to those who seek justice in their lives, especially if they experience oppression and rejection. In the Second Reading, St. Paul affirms that the Lord has always been present in his life, especially when everyone else abandoned him. Jesus, in the Gospel contrasts the two attitudes that many of us may have even when we come before the Lord in prayer: on the one hand, the Pharisee who praises himself for acting on God's word, and on the other, the public sinner who humbly recognizes his errors and seeks God's mercy. As Jesus points clearly in the humility of the sinner than in the arrogance of the Pharisee. How do you experience God's presence in your life? Are there divisions among you? All of us need to put aside our inclination toward arrogance in order to embrace the Lord in humility and selflessness.
